

What To Watch On Netflix In January 2026

This guide includes all confirmed Netflix releases for January 2026. Bookmark this list and check back for updates as Netflix announces new titles or date changes.

January 1

Harlan Coben's Run Away

When a daughter goes missing, a father is pulled into a dangerous web of secrets that refuses to stay buried. Based on Harlan Coben's novel and starring James Nesbitt, Ruth Jones, Minnie Driver, and Alfred Enoch, this gripping thriller kicks off the year with high-stakes mystery.

January 7

Good Night, and Good Luck: Live From Broadway

George Clooney brings his Tony-nominated Broadway hit to Netflix in this live presentation chronicling Edward R. Murrow's stand against fearmongering and disinformation. A timely, powerful story that demands your full attention.

Unlocked: A Jail Experiment (Season 2)

At an Arizona correctional facility, incarcerated men are given more autonomy as part of a bold social experiment. The series returns with higher stakes, deeper tension, and uncomfortable questions about power and trust.

January 8

His & Hers

An estranged couple—one a detective, the other a reporter—work the same murder case while suspecting each other may be involved. Messy, smart, and extremely bingeable.

January 9

People We Meet On Vacation

Best friends Poppy and Alex spend one vacation together every year until feelings they've avoided for years begin to surface. A heartfelt friends-to-lovers story based on the bestselling novel.

Soul On Fire

Inspired by the true story of John O’Leary, this uplifting film follows a boy who survives a near-fatal accident and grows into a man determined to inspire others through resilience, faith, and purpose.

January 13

The Running Man

In a near-future society where survival is televised, a desperate father enters a deadly competition to save his daughter. Starring Glen Powell and Josh Brolin, this high-stakes thriller blends action and social commentary.

January 15

Bone Lake

A romantic getaway turns dark when two couples are forced to share a secluded lakeside mansion. Seductive, darkly funny, and dangerous, with secrets that refuse to stay hidden.

January 16

The Rip

When Miami cops stumble upon millions in cash, trust begins to fracture. Starring Matt Damon and Ben Affleck, this crime thriller explores greed, loyalty, and how quickly things can spiral.

January 20

Star Search

The iconic talent competition returns with a modern, interactive format spotlighting music, dance, comedy, and kids’ performances, with weekly eliminations and rising stakes.

The SpongeBob Movie: Search For Squarepants

SpongeBob embarks on his biggest adventure yet, following the Flying Dutchman on a deep-sea quest to prove his bravery. Perfect for family movie night or nostalgic fun.

January 21

Kidnapped: Elizabeth Smart

Elizabeth Smart tells her story in her own words in this powerful documentary examining survival, trauma, and healing through firsthand testimony and archival footage.

January 22

Free Bert

Bert Kreischer finds himself out of his element when his daughters enroll in an elite Beverly Hills private school, leading to culture clashes, growth, and plenty of laughs.

January 27

Mike Epps: Delusional

Comedy superstar Mike Epps returns with his fifth Netflix stand-up special, delivering sharp jokes, big laughs, and stories about ambition, ego, and hustle.

January 29

Bridgerton (Season 4)

Benedict Bridgerton steps into the spotlight after a mysterious encounter at a masquerade ball. Romance, scandal, and intrigue return to the ton in this long-awaited new chapter.

Want to stay up to date on what's new and actually worth watching? Visit IceCreamConvos.com so you never miss the latest movie and TV recommendations.